Cautionary Tales of Joint Account Ownership

by Jessica Estes

For me, the most important aspect of estate planning is how one's assets are titled and understanding the consequences of such titling. Oftentimes, people, mostly for convenience purposes, will add their child, sibling, or another individual on their account as a joint owner. Although this seems like a reasonable and harmless thing to do, it can have unintended consequences that could be detrimental to your estate plan or well-being.

Not only will the account pass to the joint owner upon your death, but the joint owner has the legal right to 100% of that money so they can spend your money on whatever they desire. Or worse yet, because they can access that money, it could be subject to their creditors, lawsuits, bankruptcy or divorce.

Let's take it one step further. If dad and son own a joint account, and son is in an auto accident and can no longer manage his finances, son's power of attorney now has access to dad's account. And, most likely, son's power of attorney is his wife, or dad's daughter-in-law.

Instead of having a joint owner, name a Power of Attorney on the account. The Power of Attorney ensures that your agent may access the account only for your benefit, not theirs.

Tell Us What You Think

What do you think would be a great new name for the Senior Moments column that is published weekly in the Bowie Blade-News? Send in your suggestions or opinions to this email or telephone legal assistant, Bryce Blackford, at 301-464-7448 Ext. 111.

On April 6th, Peyton Blackford was born to Bryce & Kristen Blackford, with older brother, Dawson, excited to have a little brother.

On April 13th, twin boys, Max and Grant Winger, were born to Joshua & Lindsay Winger, with older brother, Luke, excited to see how drastically his world would forever be changed.

In two weeks, we will count the names and put the two with the highest votes up for a final decision by readers. If you don't want the name changed, feel free to tell us that, too. Thanks a lot!

Here at Byrd & Byrd, we want to make the monthly newsletter enjoyable to read, attractive to view, and interactive for our readers. What better way to accomplish that than to post our favorite YouTube video each month.

This month's YouTube Video comes from our friend, Meddling Maude. She has a YouTube Series called "Maude's Two-Minute Meddlings". It is a weekly video series that provides valuable tips and information to help seniors - and the people who love and care for them - lead safer and healthier lives. The videos star the animated character of Maude, who likes to dole out advice and meddle in people's lives - but always for their benefit.
